CURRENT COMMENT.
By President Roberts' annual report of the Pennsylvania railroad, it owns 48,997 freight cars valued at $25,425,000.00.
It is said that at least 10,000 young inhabitants of Charleston, S. C., saw snow last Sunday for the first time in their lives.

EMERSON, No. 1313, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, has met with such a continued succession of accidents and fatalities that the engineers and firemen are about to petition for its removal.

The waters of the Ochlockatchee Lake, in Florida, ran off through its underground channel a few days ago, and an immense number of the finest kind of fish were secured by the citizens of the vicinity.

A TWENTY-FIVE pound block of tin was received by a Pittsburgh concern recently. It was the first lot of commercial tin produced in this country. It came from the Hermann tin mines in North Dakota, and was produced at a cost of $2.15 a pound against $4.44 at the famous mines in Cornwall, Eng.

"The Book Buyer" for March, Charles Scribner & Sons, publishers, contains an engraved portrait of Bret Harte, and a short sketch of his literary career. A description of the newest books, literary notes in Boston and literary notes, go to make up an excellent number of this periodical. The portrait in the April number will be of Mark Twain.

A Maine pulp manufacturer expresses the opinion that Maine will soon be doing the pulp business of the country, owing to her extraordinary water powers and the proximity of the woods used in pulp manufacture. Of the 1,000 pulp mills which have been in operation in the country, four hundred in other States have been obliged to suspend because they could not compete with Maine pulp makers.

The Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee have made a decided move in the right direction by agreeing upon a heavy reduction of the duties on sugar; all grades under 16 Dutch standard to be admitted at thirty-five per cent. ad valorem, and the higher grades at forty per cent. This cuts down the production to refiners to five per cent., and that is more than they need. If adopted by Congress the new schedule would wipe out the Sugar Trust as a monopoly, and reduce the price of sugar to the people from one to two cents a pound.

There is an old lady in Bayonne, and Bayonne is in New Jersey. The old lady confesses to having spent an existence on this mundane sphere of 104 years. When she was young and charming she acknowledges that she saluted the Father of his country, our own immortal Washington, with a hearty kiss, and she further declares that she never told a lie during the entire period of her protracted life. The old lady's name is Mrs. Anselma Pansell, and Bayonne should be proud of the centenarian, who never told a lie, and who coqueted with George, whose virtues in that particular have been duly recorded.

One of the largest commission houses in New York, that of John H. Plummer & Co., made an assignment yesterday for the benefit of its creditors. The liabilities amount to about $1,000,000, with assets about the same. Mr. Plummer, the senior member of the firm, took an active part in politics, but he never let politics interfere with his business. He is a personal friend of President Harrison, and during the Presidential campaign took an active part in that campaign. Several of the mill owners in Bristol are well acquainted with him, and are, no doubt, astonished at the failure, as it was supposed that the house was doing a lucrative business. The failure is attributed to the depreciation of the value of goods the firm had on hand.

It is a matter of scientific enquiry to consider the ways and wherefores of the indispensible fact that when women have attained a certain age they seek to hide the knowledge of the exact period of their existence from friend or foe, and when they have reached the meridian of life they have no such scruples, and when, later on, having escaped or passed victoriously through the ill that afflicts humanity, they reach an age beyond the allotted three score years and ten, they are proud of the fact and have no hesitancy in proclaiming to the world the length of time they have graced it with their presence. Will not some of the feminine readers of the GAZETTE elucidate the problem and give the motives that cause the great change of feeling in this regard?

—Five and three-quarter inches of snow fell yesterday.
—Bristol had a regular old-fashioned snow storm yesterday.
—A new wharf has been placed along the canal, at Peirce's coal yards.
—Electric lights are being placed in the second story of Washington Hall.
—The bridge over the canal, at Washington street, is being rapidly constructed.
—William H. J. Wilson, at the stationery store, No. 33 Mill street, has the largest and finest assortment of Easter cards in Bristol.
—The Republican Executive committee of the borough will meet at the office of B. F. Gilkeson, Esq., on next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
—Harry Ancker has given up his clerkship in the post-office and taken a position in the railroad freight office. Clean Lippincott is the new post-office clerk.
—Messrs. J. T. Stevens & Sons, of Burlington, N. J., have obtained judgment on a mechanic's lien in the St. Mark's Parochial School, Bristol, for $149.81.
—Dr. E. W. Hopkins, of Hartford, Conn., will deliver an address, in Washington Hall, on "What is Meant by Christian Science," on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. Admission free.
—The Pastor of the Baptist church, will exchange pulpits next Sunday with the Rev. W. N. Hubbell, Pastor-elect of the Baptist church, at Montclair, N. J., a suburb of New York.
—The ferryboat "Elwood Doran," got lost in the fog this morning while on her early trip from Burlington to Bristol. She finally got stuck in the "mash" below the outlet of the canal.
—The "Mum Church" last Friday night at the Baptist church was a complete success. Those present enjoyed themselves to the full extent and a net sum of about $45 was added to the treasury.
—List of letters remaining in Bristol P. O., March 20, 1890: Thos. Brenner, Annie Molloy, Alfred Johnson, Mears & Son, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Mary Patrick, Lou Nilner, Miss Georgie Wells, Mrs. Woolley, Box 133.
—The large schooner "Red Wing," passed up the Delaware, on Sunday, to R. D. Wood's foundry for a load of pipe. The "Red Wing" has no iron hull, and it is said that there is only one other schooner hailing from Philadelphia similarly constructed.
—Arrangements are being made by the Bristol Methodist for the enlargement of their Sunday-school room by the addition of an annex in the shape of an L to the church building. The infant room is too small and the additional room is looked upon as an absolute necessity.
—Messrs. Sherman & Peirce, proprietors of the plating mills on Canal street, find their office too small for their increasing business, have begun the erection of another of larger size, which will give them more ample accommodations. The new office will be finished in hard woods, and will be one of the attractive features of the establishment.
—Joseph Goodwin will sell on the premises in Bristol township, on the road leading from Bristol to China Hall, his live stock, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, etc.; also, wagons, farming implements and dairy fixtures. Among the household goods an old grandfather's clock and other antique furniture will be sold. The sale will take place next Monday afternoon, beginning at one o'clock.
—A concert under the auspices of the "Helping Hand Society" of the Presbyterian church, will be given in the Sunday school room, of that church, on next Thursday evening, the 27th inst., at a quarter before eight o'clock. A good programme is promised and in addition to some of the best of Bristol's musical talent several Philadelphians are expected to contribute to the evening's entertainment. The price of admission is 25 cents.
—The Philadelphia Methodist Conference, which has been in session at Pottsville, adjourned on Tuesday evening. The appointments for the year of ministers in this vicinity are as follows: Rev. S. W. Thomas, Presiding Elder; Bristol, Rev. S. T. Kemble, and Joseph S. Cook, superintendents; Cornwall, Rev. E. C. Young; Langhorne, Rev. S. C. Carter; Morrisville, Rev. Thomas L. Taylor; Newnamy and Bensalem, Rev. R. C. Wood; Newtown, Rev. A. L. Hood.
—William Lunderbough, Justice of the Peace, talks seriously of giving up his present quarters, opposite the Court House Hotel. He says that business in his line has fallen off to such an extent that it does not justify him in paying office rent and devoting his whole time and attention to the business. Mr. Lunderbough has made a good officer, and we are sorry to learn that the emoluments of the office are not sufficiently remunerative to warrant the "Squire" in giving the business his undivided attention.
—The edition of the Bristol Leader for April will be 1,000 copies. It will be issued on Saturday, the 5th of that month. The Spring trade at that time will be fairly opened and there can be no better medium for the business men of Bristol to reach the public. A copy will be placed in every house in Bristol, and a number sent to people in this vicinity. The rates for advertising are very reasonable, being 25 cents an inch for small advertisements, with a liberal discount upon advertising a quarter of a column or over. Every Bristol business man should take advantage of this opportunity.
—At Riverview Hall, on Friday and Saturday evenings, Prof. J. Richard Miller, the English Magician, will give his wonderful exhibitions of sight of hand. Prof. Miller was in Bristol at the Opera House within a year and his entertainment then was much admired. The Potomac Daily News says: "A crowded house greeted the second appearance of Prof. Miller, the magician at the Opera House last evening. Everyone was anxious to see the man who had 'broken jail.' The programme was excellent and deserves a more detailed notice than the crowded condition of our columns this morning will permit us to give."
—James Blanch has made application for a transfer of his license to sell liquor, from his place on the canal bank to a house on Buckley street, which he is engaged in buying up for the accommodation of his customers. Testimony was taken last Saturday for the petitioner and for the remonstrators at the law office of B. F. Gilkeson, Esq. Mr. Gilkeson was the attorney for the petitioner, and Hugh B. Eastburn, Esq., for the remonstrators. Four witnesses were examined on each side, those who favored the petitioner being unanimous in their opinions that the house in the new location was necessary for the convenience of strangers and travelers, and the accommodation of the public, while the four who appeared for the defendant were equally outspoken and emphatic in their declarations that such a necessity did not exist. The testimony and the petition for license and the remonstrance thereto, will be submitted to Judge Yerkes at Doylestown next Saturday for his decision.

—The prospects of the establishment of a savings bank in Bristol are fair. The matter has been quietly canvassed for some days as to the feasibility of the project, and as an outcome of the favorable expressions of opinion as to its desirability, a meeting of about twenty well-known business men of Bristol was held in the law office of John C. Stuckert, Esq., on last Monday evening. Those present were James Wright, H. Gates Peters, William Blackwood, William H. Booz, George L. Horn, Byron C. Foster, J. B. Yost, William C. Peirce, Edmund Lawrence, Merrill Douglas, Dr. G. W. Adams, Edward H. Foster, John C. Stuckert, N. M. Stephen, and several others. The Act of 1889, relative to the establishment of Savings Banks, was read and informally discussed, as was also the questions of a suitable location and the probable cost of getting the concern in running order, and the annual expense of running the institution. The general opinion appeared to prevail, after some figuring on the subject, that the institution could be provided with suitable furniture, safe, stationery, etc., and run the first year at an outlay of $1,000. James Wright and William C. Peirce consented to act as a committee to ascertain by inquiring of several savings fund banks established under the Act of 1889 their method of procedure, the amount of interest paid on deposit, their by-laws, and obtain such other information as might prove valuable for guidance in the establishment of a similar institution here, and report at a future meeting.
—Charles E. Scheide, Secretary of the Bristol Improvement Company, was the recipient last night of a handsome present, consisting of a dozen forks, a dozen deserts, a dozen tea, and a dozen after-dinner coffee spoons of solid sterling silver, in an elegant rosewood case. The gift was in accordance with a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Bristol Improvement Company, held last January, appointing Dr. H. Parsell, A. J. Hibbs and Jesse W. Knight, a committee to select an appropriate gift and present it to the secretary as a testimonial in recognition of his valuable services. The committee about eight o'clock visited Mr. Scheide at his residence, on the corner of Derrance and Grundy streets. Shortly afterward Wm. H. Grundy, the president of the company, William V. Leech, its treasurer, Geo. A. Sheenaker, Mr. Grundy's partner in the firm of William H. Grundy & Co., and Gifford V. Lewis, treasurer of the Bristol Rolling Mill Company, dropped in. Dr. Parsell, in a few words, made the presentation, and referred to the value of the services Mr. Scheide had rendered to the company for years, and of his having constantly refused any remuneration therefor. Mr. Scheide in accepting the gift said, it was more highly prized by him on account of the spontaneity of the action of the stockholders, it having evidently been done without prearrangement. It showed, he said, that there were exceptions to the axiom that corporations have no souls. He said he first went into the direction of the Bristol Improvement Company to be of what service he could to his friend, through whose exertions the company was started, and who, until his retirement, was the leading spirit in it; that while he had bestowed considerable time for its advancement, he had never felt the duties to be onerous, and that he had witnessed the growth of the company from its inception to the present time with a great deal of satisfaction, and that while the company was financially successful, it had also been largely instrumental in building up the borough.

STORY-TELLERS, OLD AND NEW.
People sometimes weave for themselves a web of trouble by permitting their tongues to swerve from the truth. Lying is an unprofitable pastime. Occasionally it is found to be an expensive gratification. Its hour of delight is apt to change to a period of exaltation and remorse. In a moment of folly men have uttered evil words that they would gladly recall, if they had the power, and bury deep in harmless oblivion. Truthfulness is not only the best policy, but it is best every way.
Lies have an ancient pedigree. They date far back to the early garden, whose moral beauty was blighted by their deceptive practices. They lived in the beginning and their race has multiplied, dotting the ages in an unbroken line that is destined to link the morning of creation with the final crack of doom. The individual members of the race are sure to shuffle off their lying coil, but the race itself will flourish forever. Dr. Quincy says, that "the sciences of lying is the only one that has never died." We are compelled to tolerate the venomous affliction, just as we tolerate many other evils that harrow up our souls. The flesh is heir to manifold ills that we cannot escape, and society likewise has its hateful, hateful pests. Among these, holding a conspicuous place, lies rampant and croak, and man with stealthy tread. The Psalmist echoed the universal sentiment when he said, "I hate and abhor lying."
Few creatures are more detestable than people who are prone to falsehood; who give their mouths to evil; and their tongues to the framing of deceit; who fertilize their purposes by babbling untruths; who go about with evil on their tongues, spite in their eyes and malice in their hearts; who try to magnify their own virtues by lying people to view the virtues of others through the wrong end of the telescope; who manufacture a mountain of scandal out of a mole-hill of suspicion. What is more to be despised than a man who wrongs others through the petty art of tattling, indulging in it as though it were a precious luxury, and who delights all the more in the dish he serves, the more it is seasoned with falsehood? A spice of truth is now and then added to give it a plausible flavor, and to recommend it to popular attention; but this does not change its spurious nature.
Lies may live on, but they never endure. In time they lose their taste, and go home to plague the inventor. What for then takes possession of his guilty soul, and what soliloquy racks his brain and destroys his peace of mind?
Even liars sometimes justly claim our sympathy. They cannot ways quench their natural disposition, and they may be helpless victims of hereditary defects. They cannot escape from their unfortunate organization; but as it requires such a small measure of sense to make them conscious of their errors, they have no excuse for persistent misconduct. Let us have the charity to believe that they are often more weak than wicked; more ignorant than malicious; more suspicious of others than watchful over themselves. While we have no right to ignore vicious conduct, or to shelter wrong-doing under the wings of silence, we may sometimes be pardoned for indulging a feeling of pity for the feeble, and compassion for those who are not endowed with strength of mind. We act the part of wisdom when we show a tender consideration for the ignorant.

Bristol, March 17, 1890. X.

"Spring Military." This season is on more gorgeous plan than formerly. Fickle fashion has involved many new things for the feminine head. All orders promptly attended to at Miss A. Sicksels, No. 33 Mill street, second floor.

A news paragraph last week reports that the influenza is prevailing in Bensalem, Bucks county, a district adjoining the city. This is a most malignant and contagious disease and the utmost care should be taken to prevent its spread. The opening of the coffin of a child, who died from it at Chicago, at Zanesville, Ohio, recently resulted in the deaths of sixteen persons who attended the funeral and viewed the remains.—German town Telegraph.

—Mark Twain's new and latest book, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been placed on the shelves of the Bristol Library. This thoroughly interesting book is advertised as selling by subscription only. "A readership" in the Bristol Library costs $1.50 per year, and the owner may take out three books at a time and keep them two weeks, with the privilege of renewal for one week more. If this is not cheap reading, we should like to know what it is; and yet the Bristol Library is very far from being properly appreciated by the people generally of the borough.—Correspondence Standard.

—The March number of Strawbridge & Clothier's Monthly adds a beautiful half-tone reproduction of the Ridgway Library to the list of splendid specimens of Philadelphia architecture with which it has embellished its pages during the last few months. The current issue contains a goodly number of illustrations accompanying the usual variety of interesting articles, embracing fashions, fashions, housewifery, house decoration, and music; together with many miscellaneous paragraphs giving advice on a multitude of subjects. Of no less importance are the pages containing a monthly bulletin of seasonal dry goods, that enables the stay-at-home to buy at home by means of the illustrated, described, and priced catalogue therein given. The price of the Monthly is 50 cents per year; and the publishers are Strawbridge & Clothier, of Philadelphia.

Atlantic City, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Facilities for Reaching It.
Atlantic City occupies a unique position in the seaside resorts of America. From a distinctively summer resort, of which not many years ago daily excursionists were the predominating patrons, it has developed into a great seaside city, whose gates are open throughout the year, and whose hotels entertain the winter seeker after quiet rest with as much comfort as they afford the best of summer on pleasure bent.
Nothing has contributed so much to this development as the magnificent transportation facilities which the city possesses through the liberality and enterprise of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Not content with a single line in the West Jersey road to Atlantic City, the Pennsylvania Railroad, with that unerring foresight which is a marked characteristic of its management, some years ago secured control of the Camden and Atlantic line also, so that it now practically operates a double-tracked roadway between Philadelphia and its great seaside suburb. Both of these lines are in splendid condition. The road-beds are laid with steel rails and ballasted; the block signal system controls the running of trains; and track tanks placed between the rails obviate the necessity of stoppages for water. The very highest rate of speed consistent with safety and good management is maintained, and year by year the schedule time is reduced. With the improvements and betterments of the present winter and spring, a further reduction will be made for the approaching season.
The equipment of the lines are exceptionally good. Commodious and cheery passenger coaches have replaced the old boxes of the past, and specially-built parlor cars afford any additional ease or luxury one could demand. Standard hard coal-burning locomotives of the pattern which has given the Pennsylvania Railroad locomotive a world-wide fame, are used on the fast trains, and every detail, both of management and equipment, is accorded as much consideration on these lines as on the other divisions of the Pennsylvania system.
Possessing such abundant resources, with its improved and renovated station at Atlantic City, and the great excursion house, located on the choicest portion of the beach, the Pennsylvania Railroad's facilities for successfully handling the enormous volume of its summer business are superior in every respect. This applies to every class of passengers, and the advantageous location of its stations in Philadelphia makes it apply equally as strongly to the residents of other sections as to the people of Philadelphia.

"It is foolish for any one to have the face full of pimples, blotches, etc., when Laxado, the golden remedy can be bought for 25 cts. at any drug store."
"It is better to laugh than to cry"—do it cheerily; and to enjoy your baby's laughing society. Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup which relieves the chief discomforts of babies without stupefying the children. Price 25 cents a bottle. At all drug stores.
Temperance Wine for Invalids.
It is well known that there are cases when the most strict advocates of temperance are obliged to use some sort of wine, especially those who are old and infirm. Many weakly females as well as invalids and debilitated persons in need of a tonic, find that a little strengthening wine. The great difficulty has been in procuring a rich wine that is reliable. There are many cases where wine would be used to great advantage in place of alcoholic stimulants. It is a fact that a reliable and upon which physicians could be relied, and being strictly pure. The Wine of Alfred Sperr, of Passaic, New Jersey, and his Unfermented Grape Juice have been analyzed by chemists in nearly every State, and have always been proved strictly pure and beneficial. These wines are now being used in hospitals and by families for medicinal purposes, also by Churches for communion service. It is principally for medicinal purposes that Sperr's mode of preserving is such as to retain the rich flavor and sweetness of the fruit.—Transcript.

ABOUT PRINTING.
We desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that the Job Department of the "Bucks County Gazette" is better equipped than any printing office in Bristol, or in the lower end of the county, in all material that is needed to produce excellent printing.
It contains the largest assortment of type, selected with care for beauty of face and diversity of work, together with a great variety of cuts, rules, borders, etc. It has four different sizes of presses, of the best makes, which perform the work in the best manner, and print with rapidity.

Artistic & Printing!
THE stock of paper, envelopes, card-board and cut cards is large and varied, and the whole is under the personal and direct supervision of Geo. R. Sherman, an experienced and practical workman.
Special attention is given to printing of sale bills. A work of this character we make a point of getting done on the same day that it is ordered. Visiting and business cards, envelopes, circulars, doggers, hand bills, posters, letter and bill-heads, books, pamphlets and all other prints, done promptly and correctly. Mourning stationery kept constantly on hand.
Printing in Colors a Specialty.
Presses Run by Steam Power.
Full Count on all Jobs Guaranteed.
Prices the Lowest. Liberal discounts given on large orders. We do more Printing and have better facilities than the other offices in Bristol combined, and consequently we have the trade, and are determined to keep it. Give the office a call and be convinced.

ANCIENT LEGAL LORE.

INSTRUCTIONS TO MEMBERS OF THE BAR CENTURIES AGO.

Advice of an Old Judicial Authority That Applies to Lawyers of the Period.

Law and lawyers fill an important place in English history. They are far more prominent than was the case even in ancient Greece or Rome; and every schoolboy knows how large and diverse is the public and domestic affairs in classical times.

This oracle gives advice as to appearance, behavior and modes of speech, such as were calculated to insure success in the law courts.

MONTANA, OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

A correct map of the north west will show that the Northern Pacific Railroad traverses the central portion of Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Washington.

The Northern Pacific is the shortest transcontinental route from St. Paul and Chicago, to Helena, Butte, Anaconda, Deer Lodge, Spokane Falls, Walla Walla, Dayton and Portland.

Insure for yourself comfort and safety by having the best accommodations afforded, thereby avoiding change of cars, re-checking of baggage, transfers and lay overs en route.

For Maps, Pamphlets, rates and Tickets enquire of your nearest Ticket Agent, any District Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad; or Chas. S. Fisk, General Passenger and Ticket agent, St. Paul, Minn.
